

2016 Alaska Legislative Candidate Questionnaire

David Gillespie, House District 26
Submitted September 14th

Alaska PTA aka Alaska Congress of Parents and Teachers, Inc. represents approximately 7,000 members from 116 schools around the state. The Alaska PTA Advocacy Committee would deeply appreciate your taking the time to answer our questions about your perspective on public education in Alaska. Providing quality public education is one of the most important sectors that we can invest in, when one considers the impact it has on the future of our children and thus the competitiveness of our state.

The questionnaire will be used to provide a synopsis of candidate positions to our members, in order to better inform them of candidate positions prior to the November election. We respectfully ask that you complete and submit the questionnaire prior to September 15th, 2016.

1. Please provide your name and the Alaska Legislative seat you are a candidate for.

David Gillespie State House District 26

2. What do you see as the three top challenges facing the delivery of public education in Alaska today?

- Funding
- Capital improvements and maintenance of schools
- Improving graduation rates

3. What is your understanding of the "Every Student Succeeds Act", and what potential effects it can have on public education in Alaska?

It fixed many of the flaws in the "no child left behind" act. It removed the requirement for standardized testing and the one size fits all mandate in the hopes of increasing graduation rates. If it had been in place when I was in school I would never had graduated. But there are still parts that need to be improved.

For each of the last six years, school districts across Alaska have cut their budgets and eliminated programs and positions due to local, state and federal funding levels that have remained flat. Thus we have the following questions:

4. Do you think Alaska public schools are adequately funded?

Funding continues to be the biggest problem for our school systems. Both in the retention of of the most talented teachers, many of the important programs, and stability for long term planning.

5. Would you support an alternate revenue stream for public education in Alaska (one example would be an education head tax similar to that which was in place in 1980)?

When it comes to the fiscal health and stability of the education system, nothing should be off the table.

6. Do you support the continued minimum enrollment of 10 students to keep rural Alaska schools open to serve our rural communities and students? AND Do you support increasing graduation rates among Alaska Native students since according the National Center for Education Statistics they have one of the lowest graduation rates in the country and are residing in many of these rural small school locations?

I know this is a very important issue and having lived in rural Alaska for many year know many of the difficulties that occur. I feel all our young people need an equal opportunity.

7. Would you support a comprehensive fiscal plan that includes new revenue streams, in order to preserve funding for public education?

Yes

There is a large body of research that documents the benefits of early childhood education on overall student outcome, and graduation rates. In addition, this research suggests that pre-kindergarten programs can reduce the possibility of a student becoming incarcerated later in life.

8. Do you support funding universal pre-kindergarten as part of a complete education system in Alaska?

It goes without saying that the early years of a child's life are when they are most impressionable and providing pre-kindergarten education is a very important part of teaching habits needed for lifelong learning.

The Alaska Legislature has considered legislation that proposed a constitutional amendment to allow public money to be spent on private schools, especially. Private schools can pick and choose students and are not held to the same standards as public schools for the quality and content of education. Public schools serve all students, regardless of race, religion, disability, or socioeconomic status.

9. Do you support changing the Alaska Constitution to allow public money to be spent on private or religious schools?

I oppose changing the Alaska Constitution.

Research suggests parental involvement in a child's education contributes to improved academic performance, better social skills, greater attendance rate, and a higher likelihood of completing a post-secondary education.

10. Do you support the federal government funding a statewide family engagement center for Alaska?

I feel we should not pass up the opportunity to obtain funding from the federal grant program to enhance the provisions of "Every Student Succeeds". It is important for families to be involved in the educational process.
