Introduction:

The Alaska State Legislature website at www.legis.state.ak.us has legislative materials including session laws, journals, bills, committee records (minutes, audio, documents), and Alaska Statutes.

BASIS (Bill Action Status Inquiry System) covers the years 1993 to the present. Prior to 1993 you must use Infobases, which cover 1982 to the present and include some materials not found on BASIS.

Infobases are text-searchable. You can search all the documents of an infobase for the entire two year legislature (and also search in multiple Infobases).

BASIS is being changed to text-searchable, but most of it is not as yet. You may use the BASIS search box (in top red circle on the next page) to do text searches in the Alaska Statutes, Alaska Administrative Code, journals, bills, and minutes of recent two year legislatures (this search feature is still in the working-out-the-kinks phase, but is very helpful). Information is being continually added, and some information for 1959-92 will be added soon.

Following are tips for performing an Alaska legislative history search using these legislative online resources.
The BASIS main page allows you to search by bill number and find a bill’s Bill History/Action page with links to floor and committee action. Use the “Archive” link for prior two-year legislatures (1993 to current).

Use the “Session Laws” link to find the bill that became the session law.

Use the “Statute Information Retrieval System (SIRS)” to find a companion bill or bill that merged into your bill. Be aware that legislative history materials/discussion on your topic could be under another bill number. Search in SIRS by an Alaska Statutes (AS) citation in your bill, to see what other bills contained the same citation.
Check “Full Text” for all versions of your bill, to see if the language you are interested in was in the first version of the bill or added later by a committee substitute or floor amendment. If a large section was added, look for another bill that may have merged into yours.

Committee minutes are available at “Minutes”, and at “Display Committee Action with Bill History” (click on it to expand the list below to include committee action and minutes).
“Documents” are materials created or collected by a committee during its deliberation, and include bill drafts, amendments, sectional analyses, and public comments. 2009 is the first year some of these are available online. All committee documents are in Committee Bill Files kept in the Legislative Reference Library and later in State Archives; and are on microfiche at various research libraries around the state. Committee Bill Files 2009+, are digitized and will soon be added to the “Documents” tab.
Infobases are used primarily for legislative history searches 1982-1992, but are also helpful to use with BASIS, 1993 to present:

1) to do types of searches can’t do in BASIS: term searches in materials not yet made text searchable in BASIS, such as bills 1993 to 2001.

2) to locate information not easily found in BASIS: executive order and confirmation hearings (must know date and committee to find in BASIS)

3) to search materials not in BASIS, such as the Legislative Library LLIB catalog of legislative history materials.
Measures, which is all versions of bills, and Committee Minutes, are the Infobases used most for legislative history searches.

See attachment, “Steps to Using Infobases on Alaska State Legislature web site”, for pictures explaining how to use the Infobases.

The Alaska Legislature also has Infobases on each computer desktop as ALECSYS Infobases ... it’s the same information, but with an easier to use search engine and a few more infobases including the Alaska Statutes annotated version.
The Legislative Library Catalog Infobase (LLIB) contains entries for materials helpful to those doing legislative history searches:

- special reports done by or for the legislature
- legislative history compilations (a few available on CD)
- lists of committees, including Conference Committees, from which committee materials are available -- files, minutes, and audio.
The “Guide to Alaska Legislative History Materials” is an easy to read comprehensive description of legislative materials and where they are to be found. Its table of contents may be used as a checklist for doing legislative history searches.

Library staff (907 465-3808) can help you with legislative history searches in BASIS and Infobases.
